

GOVERNOR'S STRIKE INQUIRY

Activities Connected With Problem of Settlement Might Be Postponed.

MOYER BEFORE GRAND JURY

He and Tanner Give Versions of Deportation Episode of December 26.

Houghton, Mich., January 8.—So far as seeking information was concerned, Governor Ferris virtually completed his mission to the copper strike zone tonight. There remained the problem of a settlement, but indications were that the Governor's activities in this direction might be postponed. He let it be known that, if possible, he would leave for the Rapids to-morrow forenoon. In any case, it was said, he intended to board an outgoing train to-morrow night.

Chief interest to-day rested in the testimony of copper mine operators. It largely was a historical discussion, although emphasis was laid on the opinion of the individual mine officials that union labor, as such, was not responsible for the strike. They declared it plain that the Western Federation could hope for no consideration from company sources. They declared this position was unchangeable.

After the conference with the mine men the Governor met a delegation of Italian and Finnish nonunion workmen, who came to ask State protection. They told the State executive that they were subjected to daily threats and abuse from strikers. They said they had no use for the Western Federation or any other union.

To-night the Governor met Victor Berger, Milwaukee; Seymour Steadman, Chicago; and Charles Edward Russell, New York, who are investigating the situation for the national executive committee of the Socialist party. Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, and Charles Tanner, assistant, were also present. They were taken to the grand jury room, the men then returning to the hotel in Hancock where they were taken a fortnight ago. The nature of their testimony was kept secret.

Except for the fact that a big crowd of union men greeted their leader on their arrival, and stood about the hotels in Houghton and back to Hancock, the two made no appearance in public.

Charles H. Moyer, chief counsel of the federation, met the party at the hotel and immediately went into conference with his clients. It was presumed that developments in Governor Ferris's inquiry into strike conditions were discussed, but no announcement was made. Victor Berger, former Milwaukee Congressman, here as a member of a committee from the Socialist party, was admitted to the room.

Governor Ferris and Moyer did not meet. The Governor left Houghton in an automobile early in the afternoon and did not return for several hours. While the delegation men had completed their visit in Houghton.

PLANNING MONUMENT TO ANDREW JACKSON

Formal Steps Taken on Anniversary of Battle of New Orleans.

TO BE ERECTED IN NASHVILLE

Major E. B. Stahlman Will Appoint Committee to Form Association.

Nashville, Tenn., January 8.—On the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, formal steps to erect a monument to Andrew Jackson, its hero, were taken at a banquet given here to-night at the Hermitage Club. The banquet was attended by 150 representative men, coming from many States, and including in its personnel both Republicans and Democrats.

A resolution was adopted authorizing Major E. B. Stahlman, who presided at the meeting, to appoint a committee of twenty-five men, including Andrew Jackson National Monument Association. Articles of incorporation are to be taken out and trustees appointed from every State in the Union. The monument is to be erected in Nashville, twelve miles distant from the "Hermitage," where President Jackson lived and where his body is buried. President Jackson has already assented to become the honorary president of the association, stipulating, however, that no appropriation is to be asked of Congress.

One of the speakers at the banquet was Governor Ben W. Hooper, of Tennessee, a Republican, who said: "Among the Presidents of this nation, there have been many great men, but to the people of this country stand out with marked distinction. The virtue of the others may always be known to the student of history, but successful generations of American citizens will most vividly see the clear-cut figures of Washington, Jackson and Lincoln. Other speakers included Major E. B. Stahlman, toastmaster; John Trotwood Moore, poet and author of the original poem appropriate to the occasion; Congressman E. J. Garrett and Joseph W. Evans, of Tennessee; Hilary E. Howse, Mayor of Nashville. The following telegram from President Woodrow Wilson was read by the toastmaster:

"Will you not give to the diners at the Jackson dinner my most cordial greetings and say that I wish most sincerely that I could be present in person to join in doing honor to the great Democrat who served the country with so high a courage."

Among others who sent telegrams were Secretary Ryan, Attorney-General McKeynolds, Judge Horace Lutton, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, former Speaker Cannon, Speaker Hale, Speaker Clark, Senator Chilton, Senator James, Secretary of War Garrison, Speaker Cullum, Senator McMillen, Governor Stone, John Temple Graves, Governor Colquhoun, Baldwin, West, McCrory and Lister.

Hundreds of other congratulatory messages were received, including one from Samuel Jackson, of Carroll County, Ireland, the nearest living relative of President Jackson.

Jackson Day Observed.
St. Louis, Mo., January 8.—Democrats of St. Louis to-night observed Jackson Day by listening to speeches by Senator Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia; Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri; Senator William H. Thompson, of Kansas. Political workers from all parts of Missouri attended a banquet at which the speeches were delivered.

Senator Reed said the last national election "broke the strange hold of the Democrats on the people of this country. The question," he said, "no longer is what do the manufacturing classes in the freer case with their loss of interest; what do the political bosses demand; but what is for the general welfare?"

"The Democratic party may make mistakes, but it will not join in a deliberate conspiracy against the common man. The President owes his election to no special interests. Members of Congress elected with him recognize their duty as well as those of the President in so far as their particular powers permit similarity."

Legal Holiday in Louisiana.
New Orleans, January 8.—Citizens of Louisiana observed a legal holiday to-day, the ninety-ninth anniversary of the battle of New Orleans. Graves of soldiers buried at Chalmette, where the city are decorated. Many amateur athletic events were features of the celebration.

St. Louis, January 8.—"It is the duty of every one who respects the traditions of the past," said Senator Watson, of Tennessee, in an address before the City Club here to-day, "to do his part in making the future safe against socialism secure. This can be done only by each contributing his part towards the success of the radicalism of to-day, in which lies our safety for to-morrow."

Discontent and unrest have walked abroad for the last ten years. Signs have been evident that foretold a period of conflict. Such a period can be postponed only by some leader coming into power with the knowledge of the investment of capital, with sympathy with the requirements of labor; with courage to deal frankly and even harshly with the people of his environment; with the confidence of those who are seeking a correction of the evils that made them restless and discontent.

"Viewed from a nonpartisan point and measured by the patriotic needs of the hour, our present President is such a man. There can be no real prosperity when a nation is divided by law into two classes, those who spend their swollen fortunes in enjoying to-morrow, and those who plan how they will be sufficient to live to-morrow. There can be no genuine prosperity so long as poorhouses and asylums exist as the result of sloth and crime and disease."

Senator Lea in an address at the Jackson Day dinner of the Tennessee Society to-night predicted that this generation would see the international disputes settled by the international court of arbitration with power to enforce its decrees.

"Battleships will be built," he said, "and navies maintained, but they will be the police to keep peace between nations. Soldiers will be enlisted and armies mobilized, but they will be the marshals of the international court to enforce its orders."

REAL COMPLETION RESULTS IN SAVING

Navy Department Gets Decreases of $1,000,000 on Armor-Piercing Shells.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Washington, January 8.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels issued a statement to-day showing that the Navy Department will this year save $1,000,000 in the price for armor-piercing shells and common shells. Ninety thousand shells of all classes were included in the bids. Seven manufacturing concerns competed, including one German and one British firm.

The tabulation of the decreases on bids opened yesterday at the Navy Department is for the present year aggregates $1,067,790. The competitors are the Bethlehem Steel Company, Crucible Steel Company, Midvale Steel Company, Watling Steel and Foundry Company, Hamilton Steel and Foundry Company (English), the American and British Manufacturing Company, the J. C. Mitchell Steel Iron Works, the Pennsylvania Iron Works.

The awards of contracts will not be made for a few days yet. Some of the companies bid on only one class of shells, and some of them on both classes.

Commenting on the bidding, Secretary Daniels said: "The drop in price on armor piercing shells is a very remarkable one in view of the increased severity of the test demanded by this year's specifications. In general, the Bethlehem, Crucible and Midvale Steel Companies heavily undercut all other competitors, including the German and British Steel Company. The Midvale Steel Company was low bidder at $15 for a 14-inch armor piercing shell, against $27.50 for the same year's price. The Midvale Steel Company was low on the 12-inch shells. The E. W. Bliss Company put in the lowest bid, $5.50 for 5-inch common shells, against $13.30 last year. Bethlehem offered this year to make the 4-inch common shell at $5.45, as against $10.50 last year."

"The department is, of course, greatly pleased at the vindication of its contention that real competition would show great saving."

MUCH OF RADIUM NOW SOLD AS FAKE, SAYS DR. KELLY

So should it be with the Christian. Radium is one of our own laws the same as the Christian should be. The Christian should reflect his radiance as radium does. He should be as gentle in his way and as powerful for good as radium is in its own nature. He should be as God and His word. Each day I draw my checks on God's bank, for I know that they will be honored. Christ has asked us all to make the laboratory experiment."

For Federal Conservation.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Washington, January 8.—The power of the Wilson administration to throw back of Federal conservation of radium if it shall be found that the radium cancer cure benefits Representative Brewster, of New Jersey, friend of President Wilson, now under treatment at Baltimore.

Those close to the President to-day asserted that he is following every move in the Brewster case with the greatest interest. Should it prove successful in curing the disease or mollifying its ravages, it is predicted that immediate action toward the exploitation of the radium cure will be taken. The endorsement of the administration.

Profit Is Tremendous.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
London, January 8.—Dr. Lazarus Barlow, who has been successfully treating cancer patients with radium, declared to-day that although the present price of radium is $100 a milligram, he has been able to produce a cure which leads him to believe that it could be sold at a profit at $3 or $4 a milligram.
